

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. TABLE K.
REPORT OF INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

LEWISTON, December 15th, 1899.

Major-General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine.

Sir:—In accordance with Article XX, Militia Law of the State of Maine, I have the honor to submit my annual report for the official year ending December 15th, 1899.

As a result of the Spanish War, Maine was called upon to furnish for the Volunteer Army of the United States one regiment of Infantry and four batteries of Heavy Artillery. The 1st Regiment under the command of Colonel L. H. Kendall was stationed at Camp George H. Thomas, Chickamauga Park, Georgia, where it remained until ordered back to Maine. The four batteries of Heavy Artillery under the command of Major E. E. Newcomb were recruited almost entirely from the 2d Regiment and reported for duty at Savannah, Georgia. They were afterwards ordered to report to Major-General Fitzhugh Lee of Havana. The few officers and men who did not volunteer, were given leaves of absence and furloughs until May 1st, 1899, as was the case with all officers and enlisted men of the National Guard who volunteered to serve in organizations from this State.

The government accepted the services of the Maine Signal Corps under Captain Butler and at Santiago they did themselves and the State great credit and received the personal thanks of General Greeley.

INSPECTION.

In accordance with General Orders No. 5, I commenced my official inspection in July and visited the companies of the Eastern Battalion.

Company L, 2d Inf. of Houlton.

Inspection July 19th, 1899.

Present: Officers 3,

Present: Enlisted men 23.

Equipments in good condition. Campaign hats in fair condition. Blouses and trousers old and badly worn. Overcoats and caps good. Blankets good.

This company was furloughed from May, 1898, until May, 1899. There was no drilling for that period and consequently it was in rather a poor condition. It is now getting into shape and will soon be in its old form, and at the next annual encampment will be in good shape. This company being located at the home of the Commander-in-Chief, the citizens take a natural pride in maintaining it.

Company K, 2d Inf. of Calais.

Inspection July 21st, 1899.

The condition of this company I found very unsatisfactory, there had been no attempt to do anything with the company since its return from Augusta in 1898. The citizens had withdrawn their moral support and I could not find anyone who would take the responsibility to recruit it up to the standard. There seems only one thing to do and that is to place the company elsewhere.

Company I, 2d Inf. of Eastport.

Inspection July 24th, 1899.

This company keeps up the reputation it established years ago when known as the Frontier Guards.

Present: Officers 2,

Present: Enlisted men 26.

The ceremony of inspection well performed. Condition of arms good. Equipments good. Blouses and trousers poor. Blankets and overcoats good. Leggins good. Hats fair. This company as formerly is one of the best in the Second Regiment and can be depended on. Military courtesy and good discipline all that could be expected.

Company M, 2d Inf. of Machias.

Inspection July 25th, 1899.

Present: Officers 3,

Present: Enlisted men 17.

Condition of all military property in this company good. Practically new like the other companies which were furloughed.

It had done no drilling and as would be expected had lost its interest somewhat but is recruiting and will be back to its old form in 1900.

Company F, 2d Inf. of Dover.

Inspection August 28th, 1899.

This was my second visit at Dover.

Present: Officers 2,

Present: Enlisted men 15.

This company is in the hands of a man unfit to hold a commission in the National Guard. Captain Brown could not or would not get the company into shape and it may be advisable to place it elsewhere.

Company D, 1st Inf. of Norway.

Inspection November 14th, 1899.

Captain Nash has recruited the company, made his requisitions and has his company fully armed and equipped, has a fine looking lot of men, and with a little more drilling will be in fine condition. This is the first company I have visited in the First Regiment, and the only one I can report on before December 1st, 1899.

Owing to the conditions that have existed the past year I shall make no minute criticisms on the companies so far inspected.

The delay of the captains in recruiting the companies and making the necessary requisitions for arms, equipments and uniforms, etc., has delayed any further reports for 1899.

BRIGADE FORMATION.

Like my predecessors I am desirous of seeing our National Guard under Brigade Organization as it implies some knowledge that the citizen soldier is in need of and which could not be obtained in any other way, as well as the practical work which the administration of a brigade implies. This would necessitate a larger appropriation and if the Committee on Military Affairs would call the officers of the National Guard, or as many of them as they think best, before them at the next meeting of the Legislature, I think it could be made plain to the committee that we were not asking for anything unreasonable.

I have visited Companies D, E, L, B and A of the First Regiment and am well pleased with the interest manifest. The captains are securing many of their old men, and the class of recruits, thanks to the regulations in force, are a good, clean looking lot of young men and will make good soldiers.

The experience of the officers and men who were in the volunteer service will be of great benefit to them personally and to the State in the future development of the Guard.

ARMORIES.

We are in need of better armories in many of the towns and I wish it were possible to have State armories and the cities and towns where companies are located should pay to the State a low rate of interest on the cost of the armories, the towns to do the heating and lighting.

The Lewiston armory is not what it should be for four companies, the drill hall would do very well, but the company's rooms are too small. Two of the companies have only one small room each, which necessitates the officers and men using the same room. This is one of the cases where the commander-in-chief would be justified in withholding the armory rent from the city until it complies with the law.

I feel much encouraged for the future prospects of the National Guard, and think that, at our annual encampment in 1900, we shall have two as fine regiments as could be asked for. The officers and men are well pleased with the quality of the uniforms and equipments which are being furnished them. They realize that the State is spending quite a sum of money and they wish to render the best service in their power in return.

In conclusion I wish to thank you, General, and through you His Excellency, the Commander-in-Chief, for your many courtesies and kindly indulgence. I wish also to thank Colonels Kendall and Newcomb for their many courtesies. I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

FRANK L. HOYT,

Inspector-General, National Guard State of Maine.

REPORT OF COMMISSARY-GENERAL.

BRUNSWICK, December 15, 1899.

Major-General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to submit my report as Commissary-General for the year 1899.

As no troops were mobilized during 1899, there was no duty called for in my department.

Yours very respectfully,

GEORGE L. THOMPSON,
Commissary-General.

TABLE M.
REPORT OF SURGEON-GENERAL.

SACO, MAINE, Dec. 15th, 1899.

Major-General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to present my report as Surgeon-General of Maine for the year ending December 15th, 1899, in accordance with the law governing the Militia of Maine.

The duties of this department for the year just passed have been fewer than in previous years, though whatever demands have been made we have endeavored to meet with a willingness, and to conduct them in as methodical and systematic a manner as possible.

Captain Robert J. Martin, Assistant Surgeon of the 2nd Infantry, whose term expired November 8th, 1899, declined a re-appointment. This is a source of regret to the medical department who fully appreciate the valuable services rendered by Capt. Martin in the past, and sincerely wish that he might have remained. With this single exception the personnel of the medical staff has not been changed during the year. It is a source of pride that we are able to have in the medical department men who always enter into the work assigned them with an earnestness and alacrity commensurate with the duties involved.

Under orders from the Adjutant-General, and in co-operation with him and the surgeons of the two regiments, whose valuable knowledge and information were of great aid, a new enlistment and examination blank has been provided which will be a valuable addition, and while simple and concise, is yet specific and sufficiently voluminous for all practical purposes.

It is very gratifying to those who have had the matter in charge that there has been no outbreak of typhoid fever in Augusta and vicinity as a result of the many cases brought there from Chickamauga, and it again proves the efficacy of thorough work and painstaking care in closing all avenues of possible contagion at that time, and the destruction by fire of the sinks at the camp in Augusta, will be the final act in completing all the conditions in as thorough a manner as modern science can devise. Previous to the return of the soldiers from the infected camp at Chickamauga there were no cases at the State Camp Ground. The fact that it was imported cannot be denied, and great care was exercised by the medical officers in charge of the camp in closing every avenue whereby the infection might be spread. This action received the approval of the local as well as the State Board of Health.

It is sincerely hoped by this department that more land may be purchased in the rear of the sinks in order that the new ones may be located as far as possible from the mess. This appears quite essential, not only from an esthetic point of view, but from a sanitary standpoint as well.

There are practically no medical or surgical supplies on hand, but acting under orders from the Adjutant-General, and after consultation with the surgeons of the respective regiments, I am making a list of non-perishable medical supplies to have packed, marked and stored ready for immediate use and shipment in case, for any cause whatever, there should be an unexpected mobilization of the Guard, and another list of perishable goods to be made out and kept in readiness that can be filled at any time. This is certainly a wise move, for in so doing there can be less liability of forgetting important articles than there would be if the list was made out after a sudden call to arms. In addition the medical and surgical chests are to be replenished at once for our use.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. J. MAYBURY,
Colonel & Surgeon-General.

TABLE N.
REPORT OF JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL.

ELLSWORTH, MAINE, December 15, 1899.

Gen. John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to submit my annual report as Judge Advocate-General, for the year ending December 15, 1899.

There have been, through the year, various boards of inquiry, whose jurisdiction has been sufficiently broad, under the laws of this State, to relieve this Department from courts-martial.

I have given such various opinions as required upon matters placed before me, all of which appear upon the files of your office.

I have attended the Commander-in-Chief on various occasions.

Very respectfully yours,

HANNIBAL E. HAMLIN,

Judge Advocate-General.

TABLE O.
REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR-GENERAL OF RIFLE
PRACTICE.

To the Adjutant-General of the State of Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to submit my report of rifle practice, in the National Guard of the State of Maine, as is required by the statute, together with such recommendations as is deemed proper at this time.

It will be remembered that the Spanish American War occupied the active attention of your department during the year 1898; the preparing and sending of a large portion of the National Guard into the service of the government, produced such disorganization of the forces remaining, that no practice was done that year excepting instruction upon the State range to several batteries, prior to their departure.

On the return and mustering out of the troops from the service of the government, so much time was required to recruit the companies to their compliments, that there could be but little active range practice in 1898. In anticipation of the return to duty of the Guard, I commenced early in 1899 to ascertain in what condition the company ranges were, and endeavoured to have them put in repair so that as much rifle practice as possible could be had the past season. Many of the officers most active in this respect, were commissioned in the regular army, and others chosen to fill their places, all of which led to the delay in getting the National Guard ready for work upon the range.

Nearly all the company ranges were repaired and in some cases rebuilt. The companies now without rifle ranges are companies D and H of the First Infantry, and companies A and M of the Second Infantry. Companies A and M will have to have new ranges, the others repaired.

The only companies which made any return of rifle practice during the season were A, B and M of the First Infantry, and A and L of the Second Infantry. The only companies which applied for qualification practice, under the regulations, were companies B of the First and L of the Second Infantry. These companies had their practice the last days of October, and their scores and qualifications are hereto appended.

AMMUNITION.

Acting under Orders of June 23d from your office, appointing Colonel E. C. Farrington, Major W. O. Peterson and Captain W. A. Paul, a board to test the smokeless powder manufactured for use in the U. S. Springfield rifle, the board convened at the State Rifle Range at Augusta, Saturday, July first, and in the presence of yourself, and General W. S. Choate, tested the smokeless powder manufactured and furnished by the Laflin & Rand Powder Co. of New York. The report of the board was made to you under date of July 6, 1899. As stated in the report, we found the powder satisfactory and well fitted for use in the Springfield rifle. We did not advise its use the past season, for the reason that the State had sufficient ammunition for the Guard on hand, consisting of cartridges and unfixed ammunition. We did anticipate the use of it in 1900, but inasmuch as the expenditure of ammunition on hand the past season was small, I would advise that the Guard continue to use the ammunition which the State is now provided with.

QUALIFICATION OF MARKSMEN.

Under the new regulations now in use by the National Guard of this State, the practice upon the rifle ranges is only a preliminary practice; the qualification practice being under different conditions as to scores made, and under the supervision of some commissioned officer, other than that of the organization practicing for qualification.

As provided by the regulations and under Special Orders, the officers designated met at the armory in Portland, on the first day of August and agreed upon and submitted certain rules and regulations to govern in the qualification of marksmen, which were made authoritative by your orders.

There were two companies who availed themselves of the right of qualification and had their practice in accordance with regulations and under the rules adopted. I think that the practice was satisfactory and that the same rules should govern the qualifications for 1900.

I desire to call your attention to the inconsistency regarding requirements for practice in Paragraphs 256 and 261, and recommend changes therein. Paragraph 256 provides that where 500 or 600 yard ranges cannot be had, a 300 yard range may be used instead. It also provides that where a man has made with the rifle two scores of 23 at 500 (300) yards, he may practice at 600 (300) yards. Paragraph 261 provides that when a man has made two scores of 23 at 500 (300) yards, and two scores of 22 at 600 (300) yards, etc. I would advise that in Paragraph 256 the "23" at 500 yards be changed to 22 and in Paragraph 261 the "23" at 500 yards be changed to 22, and the "22" at 600 yards be changed to 23.

The Guard today is deficient in rifle practice. It is true there are a few good riflemen, but the greater part of the Guard are extremely lacking in the knowledge of rifle shooting. The Guard today is mostly new men who have had but little rifle practice, and they need careful training and a good deal of practice. With well directed effort one season will make the Guard as a whole, a very efficient body of marksmen. While rifle shooting with effect is not hard to acquire it has to be acquired by practice, and in no other way can marksmen be made. An amount of theoretical instruction is absolutely necessary, and lessens the time required to become good shots, but practice and practice alone is the only method which will make marksmen of any usefulness. Instruction in the armories during the winter months, and an active and energetic season of practice during the spring and summer will change the Guard from a body of soldiers largely without experience in rifle shooting to a body of efficient riflemen.

I wish to call your attention, and with pride, to the qualification of the officers taken from the National Guard of Maine, now in the United States Service, as sharpshooters and superior instructors of rifle practice, such officers as Captain W. A. Paul, Captain I. H. Baker, and Captain Henry G. Crockett. Their services must be of great value to the commands to which they belong.

STATE RIFLE TEAM.

I wish to urge the formation of a State team, with a view of competing in the Interstate and State National matches, which annually occur at Sea Girt, New Jersey, early in September, each year. In the year 1894, Maine sent a team there, and although it entered the contests under disadvantages not easily overcome, nevertheless it won individual and team honors the State might well be proud of. The matches were in no sense, or rather in a limited sense, military matches. The attention of the management was sharply called to the fact that if the conditions then existing continued to prevail, the interest in military rifle matches would be injured and the National meetings cease to be patronized by state rifle teams. The result has been as expected. It is with much satisfaction that a decided change has been brought about by General Bird Spencer, the able executive officer of the association, so that the competitions this year were military matches, and will be so in the future. It is strongly urged now, that Maine may commence early the formation of a team to represent the State in the next fall competitions.

CONCLUSION.

While I regret my inability to report any better condition of affairs as regards efficiency in rifle practice in our Guard, the work done this season will greatly aid in securing satisfactory results the coming year. Everything has been done by the Commander-in-Chief, Governor Powers, and Adjutant-General Richards, as well as the Colonels commanding, Colonel L. H. Kendall and Colonel E. E. Newcomb, to give all assistance possible to improve the Guard in marksmanship, and circumstances over which there was no control has prevented any better success. For the assistance rendered by the officers referred to, I wish to express my sincere appreciation.

E. C. FARRINGTON,

Colonel and Inspector-General of Rifle Practice.

RULES GOVERNING QUALIFICATION FOR SMALL ARMS PRACTICE.

The following rules are laid down to govern practice for qualification for the different classes of marksmanship in the National Guard of Maine, for the year 1899.

The period for qualification practice is the months of September and October.

The commander of each company shall have charge of all company qualifications, laid down in the "Regulations for Small Arms Practice."

He shall make return to the Inspector-General of Rifle Practice, and to the Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice, upon blanks provided for that purpose, and shall certify that the qualifications were made as provided in the regulations and the rules herein laid down.

The qualification practice of any officer of the Guard not enrolled in company organization, having received permission to practice as provided in Paragraph 262 of the Regulations, shall be as may be prescribed by the Inspector-General of Rifle Practice, and approved by the Commander-in-Chief.

When any company commander selects a day or days within the period determined upon by the officers mentioned in Paragraph 258, of the Regulations for the National Guard, for practice, the Colonel commanding the regiment in which the company is, shall detail a non-commissioned officer from some other company conveniently near, to supervise the marking during the qualification practice.

The officer before commencing such company practice, shall see that the targets, danger flags, marking disks, etc., are in order and that a danger flag is displayed at the target pit and at the firing point.

He shall see that the non-commissioned officer detailed by the Colonel to supervise the marking takes his place in the pit with the markers, and that he is provided with score cards with the names of those who are to practice for qualification, and in the order of their firing, and that he is instructed to observe the hits of all shots and see that the markers give the proper signal showing the value of the shot, being particular that the centre of the marking disk is put as near as it can conveniently be, over the bullet hole in the target.

The supervisor shall enter the value of each and every hit against the name of the one firing, as appears on his score card.

The officer in charge shall detail two of his company to act as markers during the practice, and make such changes from time to time as he thinks proper.

He shall also detail a member of his company to act as scorer, and make such changes in scorers as he deems advisable, provided no change is made which can be avoided, until those whose names are upon the score card have finished their firings.

No sighting shots will be allowed at any of the ranges.

When the commanding officer is ready to commence practice, he shall have the danger flag at the target removed, place at the firing two competitors, who shall fire alternately, the odd number of the pair being on the right and firing first. This order of firing must be adhered to, unless prevented by some accident, and in case any change is made the supervisor of marking must be so informed and his score card changed accordingly.

The supervisor and markers must not expose themselves at the pit, until they turn the target down and expose the danger flag.

The supervisor in deciding doubtful hits will give careful attention as to whether the edge of the bulls eye or lines are touched by the bullet, and if so the shot shall be counted as having hit the bulls eye or lines, and give it the larger score accordingly.

After a shot has been scored, there can be no change made in the score, unless the officer in charge has good reason to know that an error has been made in marking, and if such change is made, the supervisor must be notified and his score changed accordingly.

If it is evident to the officer in charge or to the supervisor that a hit was made from a bullet which had struck the ground before hitting the target, it must be scored a "miss."

The scorer shall sit close to and at one side of the firing point and shall closely observe the marker's signals; call the score and the name of the competitor making it, and then enter it upon his score card.

No two competitors shall shoot the same rifle, nor shall a rifle be changed after a score has been commenced, unless the rifle has been disabled by accident.

The cleaning of rifles not allowed, except between ranges, which may then be done if desired.

Officers and men shall wear their prescribed fatigue uniform and belt, and a campaign hat, as permitted by General Orders No. 10, Paragraph III, c. s.

If the practice is over more than one range, the shortest will be used first and the longest last.

No coaching is to be allowed, nor shall the officer in charge allow any person other than himself, the scorer and the two competitors nearer than ten yards of the firing point, nor shall any one be permitted to interfere in any way with the competitors or give advice as to anything pertaining to the shooting, nor disturb the competitors by loud talk, while the men are at the firing point.

Whenever the day is selected, the competition must then take place, unless prevented by rain sufficient to make marking impracticable, but the officer may delay firings until the rain ceases, but for no other reason shall the practice be delayed.

If for any cause the target is removed just as the firer makes a shot, he shall be given another shot, but no claim as to poor cartridges or any other reason be considered for giving another shot when one has been made.

Only one practice for qualification for each member of a company will be allowed during the season, but if all the members of a company who are entitled to such practice in the two days mentioned in the "Regulations," have not had an opportunity to do so, the commander of any company may notify the Inspector-General of Rifle Practice of the fact, and he shall submit the matter of further practice to the Commander-in-Chief, and be governed by his direction.

The score cards of the scorer and supervisor shall be preserved, those of the supervisor to be sent to the Inspector-General of Rifle Practice immediately after the completion of the practice, and those of the scorer placed on file by the officer in charge.

The officer in charge may test the pull of any rifle, and it shall be his duty to do so if asked to, or if he has reason to think that it is below six pounds, and he shall not allow any soldier to use any rifle the pull of which is less than six pounds.

Any rule laid down in Blunt's Small Arms Firing Regulations, governing rifle practice not herein specified, will govern in any case which is not covered by these rules.

The Signal Corps will be governed by the same rules as are herein laid down for company organizations.

TABLE P.
SPECIAL REPORTS.

AUGUSTA, July 6, 1899.

To General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General of Maine:

Sir: Agreeable to General Orders No. 6, June 23, 1899, appointing Colonel E. C. Farrington, Inspector-General of Rifle Practice, Major Wm. O. Peterson, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., and Captain Wm. A. Paul, Second Infantry, N. G. S. M., as a board to test the smokeless powder referred to in the order "with a view of deciding upon its adaptability to the use of the National Guard in the Springfield rifle, calibre 45, as issued by the United States," the board was convened at Augusta, Saturday, July 1st, and was accompanied to the rifle range by General John T. Richards and General W. S. Choate, former Inspector-General, and who is an expert rifleman, he being invited to be present.

Tests were made at 200 and 500 yards, with the latest pattern of U. S. Springfield rifle.

The day was bright with about a four mile wind from the southwest which increased to a ten mile wind with flaws and changes in direction. The board used twenty cartridges loaded by the Laflin & Rand Powder Co., New York City, with twenty-two grains of powder; also twenty cartridges, loaded by the board with powder made by that company, five each loaded with twenty-two, twenty, eighteen and sixteen grains, respectively, and with the 500 grain bullet. The powder in all the shells was put in loose, seating the bullets in the usual manner.

The first firings were taken at 200 yards, five shots being fired from a rest by each member of the board, and then by General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, and General W. S. Choate.

The elevation was placed at 200 yards, sighting through the peep sight. The result was very nearly the same in all cases.

The aim was as nearly as could be at the bottom of the bulls eye. The hits were in all tests with the cartridges loaded with twenty-two grains, above the bulls eye, either a close three, but mostly a close four, except three which were in the bulls eye. This was without doubt owing to the difference in holding. There was no apparent difference between those loaded by the company and by the board. Very little difference was observed between those loaded with twenty and twenty-two grains. Those loaded with eighteen grains came nearer the center, and with that elevation appeared best suited for 200 yard shooting. There was no attempt made to make high scores, the object being to see if the shooting was uniform.

At 500 yards the elevation was placed at 450, which was found to be about right. The conditions of light and wind were bad for accurate firing, although there was no difficulty in placing the hits upon the target, and determining that the shooting was uniform. The target used was the elliptical as used by the government.

The rifle was not cleaned until after the firings at 200 yards when it was partially cleaned. An examination of the barrel before cleaning indicated that there was not much fouling, it looked quite bright, much more so than when black powder was used.

The recoil when using the twenty-two grain cartridges, appeared about the same as when using the government carbine cartridges; not enough to prevent a recruit from doing successful work.

After the firings were completed, the rifle was taken to the office and an attempt made to clean it. There was found a fine coating, fouling the grooves, which was with difficulty removed. The barrel was considerably leaded. While this may not greatly affect the accuracy, it will without doubt require more care to keep the rifle clean and the barrel in serviceable condition.

No attempt was made to determine the trajectory, as compared with the black powder ammunition, for there was not time or the conveniences for that purpose. The apparent time of flight of the bullet at each range indicated that there could be but little difference between this and that of black powder.

There was but trifling smoke, not enough to attract attention at any considerable distance; in fact it may be regarded as smokeless.

We therefore conclude that the powder is well adapted for use in the U. S. Springfield rifle. The tests gave satisfaction and we have no hesitancy in saying that it is far preferable to black powder for the use of the Guard for active service.

It must be understood that for the recruit to learn to shoot with the rifle, any powder giving uniform results is sufficient. The main hinderance to good work by the new beginner, is the recoil which attends the use of the seventy grain, five hundred grain bullet. The method heretofore adopted in this State, the loading by companies of shells with sixty grains of black powder removes the difficulty in this direction. The further fact that your department has on hand 59,000 rounds of rifle ammunition, 31,000 carbine cartridges and 99,000 bullets compels the board not to advise any change for the present season.

Respectfully submitted,

E. C. FARRINGTON, Col. and Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

Board of Inquiry.

EASTPORT, June 9, 1899.

Maj.-Gen. John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to report that I proceeded to Calais on Tuesday morning for the purpose of interviewing Mayor Tarbox, as you requested.

Upon my arrival Captain McCullough informed me that in order to see the Mayor, I would have to drive to Red Beach just nine miles down river, which I did, the Captain accompanying me.

After a two hours' talk in which I explained your purpose and intention in National Guard matters, also my own, the Mayor was pleased to say that I might quote him as willing to do anything for Company K that was reasonable and just, provided however, that the company was put in proper shape and took interest enough to use the armory for military purposes.

I talked with a number of citizens prominent in the affairs of the city, a majority of whom are in favor of having the company continue, while a few were indifferent.

Captain McCullough and Lieutenant Trimble desire to retire from the service and will resign. Lieutenant Adams is anxious to take the company and pull it together, it will depend upon whether he can secure permanent employment or not, of which he will advise me the first of next week. All the men who were in the Volunteers from Calais are anxious to take on if Adams recruits the company.

I am hoping for a favorable report from him. I will give you more of the details when I formally report.

Yours very respectfully,

E. E. NEWCOMB,

Col. 2nd. Infantry.

LEWISTON, July 7, 1899.

Major-General J. T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I have visited Dover and Bangor and am sorry to say that I have found things in F and G rather unsatisfactory, or we should consider them so under any other circumstances.

Captain Brown did not get my notice, consequently there was no company present for inspection. They have been drilling a little. I had a talk with the Lieutenants and they informed me that the prospects were good for recruiting the company up to its full quota.

Captain Brown was out of town.

G Company is practically in command of Lieutenant Brett. Captain Boardman is away and takes no interest whatever in the company. He received my notice, but neglected to notify Lieutenant Brett, consequently no men were present.

I would recommend that Captain Boardman's resignation be accepted and an election ordered at once for captain, first Lieutenant, and second Lieutenant. Lieutenant Brett will probably be elected captain, and I think will make a good officer.

Captain Boardman has not been in the armory since August '98. Companies F and G both have a lot of dead wood on their rolls, I have advised them to forward you a list of all men whom they wish to get rid of and have them discharged by general orders.

Lieutenant Brett has not received any general orders and did not know anything about recruiting his company, but seems anxious and willing to do all in his power to build up the company.

I have notified each company that I would inspect them the last of the month, and will base my official report on the conditions as I find them at that time. You can consider this as a matter of information rather than a report. I will forward the numbers of the twenty-six rifles in a few days. I am

Very respectfully yours,

F. L. HOYT,
Inspector-General.

LEWISTON, July 27, 1899.

General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta, Maine:

My Dear General: I am home from my Eastern trip, found things in very good shape with one exception. Company L of Houlton is prosperous. Captain Smith says he will soon have his company with a full complement of men ready for any emergency.

Company I of Eastport is in the best shape of any one of the Eastern Battalion. Captain Hume is a fine officer and the administration of his company is excellent.

Company M of Machias will be all right after they have an election. Captain Bowker is bound to get out and has noticeably lost his interest. His property is in good shape and all in the armory with the exception of a few pieces which he says he knows where they are and will have them in. He had but a few men out to Inspection but had reasonable excuse for many and has ten men enlisted who have not been examined and mustered. That company will be all right in a short time.

All we have in Calais is State property. Captain McCullough has not the time, so he claims, to look after it, but, from what I could learn the company has got away from him completely. Lieutenant Adams has left the State and there is no one that I could find to take hold and build up the company. I do not know what Colonel Newcomb has in mind. It would seem to me that some other town should be given the company unless someone knows a remedy which I could not discover.

With the exception of K Company, I found things in as good condition as we could reasonably expect, after the conditions as they have been for the last year.

I expect to see you in a short time as I wish to consult with you in regard to a few matters in connection with the service.

I am very respectfully,

F. L. HOYT,

Inspector-General.

BANGOR, MAINE, October 18, 1899.

General John T. Richards, Adjutant-General of the State of Maine, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: Inasmuch as our only commissioned officer, Lieutenant Brett, lies critically ill with typhoid fever, and will not be in condition to resume drills and personal command of the company for an indefinite period; and as the members of the company are anxious to continue the weekly drills and not allow the interest to abate; therefore, we the undersigned enlisted men of Co. G, 2d Regt., N. G. S. M., respectfully pray that some officer or suitable person be appointed to take temporary command of the company during the illness of Lieutenant Brett, to continue the drills and the enlistment of recruits.

We hope that we are doing nothing improper or unmilitary in presenting the above petition, which we do by permission of our sick commander, and beg to assure you that we are actuated solely by a desire to benefit the service.

Respectfully submitted,

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE.

AUGUSTA, October 19, 1899.

Major Frank A. Robinson, Second Infantry, N. G. S. M., Bangor, Maine:

Sir: I have the honor to state that a communication has been received by me, indicating that Lieutenant Brett is critically ill with typhoid fever and will not be in a condition to take personal command of Company G for a long period.

You will please make inquiries about the conditions and write me fully of them.

I wish to know what non-commissioned officers are on duty with the company and if the senior sergeant is capable of taking command during Lieutenant Brett's absence and pending the holding of an election.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,

Adjutant-General.

ARMORY G COMPANY,

SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY,

NATIONAL GUARD OF THE STATE OF MAINE.

BANGOR, October 25, 1899.

Gen. John T. Richards, Adjutant-General, Augusta:

Sir: I respectfully indite to you this semi-official letter, at the request of my commanding officer, 2nd Lieut. Howard Brett, (at present ill of the fever, but rapidly recovering, without doubt, in three or four weeks, he will again be able to take command). Last week if I mistake not, a communication was sent to your office direct, relating to company affairs, of which, neither Lieut. Brett nor myself were cognizant, and fearing that it might perhaps convey to you a state of affairs, which in reality does not exist, to explain matters I send this. We, of course, unhappily, are at present minus a commissioned officer, but are still holding drills, with more or less success; it is not so easy for non-com's to get a body of men together, as for a commissioned officer, but wishing to correct, what I feared might be the impression that there was no one to drill us, I so respectfully write.

Special Orders No. 6 (Reg'tl) stated that Capt. & Surg. R. J. Martin would confer with Lieut. Brett as to dates for an examination of recruits, but no word has as yet been received, although request was made to Capt. Martin as late as last month. We are dropping out gradually the non-attendants and of course must fill their places, and above all we are anxious to have an election of officers, and get our company on a business footing, which owing to our present handicapped circumstances it is very hard to do.

We have at present on the rolls 37 men, of whom four recommendations for discharge have been made leaving 33 who are good men, and we are pretty sure of enough or nearly enough to make our complement at the next examination.

Referring to another matter, we have a man who claims to have been enlisted last year under Capt., Boardman, but of whom no record can be found here. If such a man (the name is Ware) is on the register from this company, it would oblige me could I get his personal record for the company's register. I remain, Sir,

Very respectfully,

V. P. B. VIENNEAU,

Priv. & Act. Com'y Clerk.

Sir: In reply to your communication of October 19th, I would respectfully state that I have made inquiries as requested and that the present non-commissioned officers on duty are First Sergt. I. R. Swett, Sergt. H. L. Bowen, Corp. H. H. Leathers and Corp. C. R. Oliver, any one of whom I consider capable of taking command during Lieut. Brett's absence.

Yours very respectfully,

Sir: I beg leave to report that in accordance with S. O. No. 90, A. G. O., c. s. the men enlisted by Harry M. Bigelow assembled at the armory last evening and but forty-two were passed by the Surgeon so the muster in was continued till this evening; Captain O'Neill to examine this afternoon at 4 P. M. for the balance required under the order. Lieutenant Bigelow reports, as a reason of failure to complete, several detained by sickness and one counted as sure was killed on the Grand Trunk Railway, N. P. Anderson, employed as brakeman, in an accident at Gorham, N. H., December 25th.

PORTLAND, December 28, 1899.

To the Adjutant-General, State of Maine, Augusta, Maine:

Sir: I beg leave to report that in accordance with S. O. No. 90, A. G. O., c. s. Captain O'Neill, Assistant Surgeon, accepted seven men on Wednesday afternoon, making a total of forty-nine(49) passed, and that last evening I mustered in forty-six

(46) and have sent the enlistment papers in separate envelope.

Mr. Bigelow has asked me if it would be possible for me to muster in the three other men before their officers were commissioned, I replying that I would not care to unless with your permission, as I was under the impression forty-six was to be the maximum of the company. If you wish me to muster them please advise and oblige.

Power is given in case of war, insurrection or invasion, to appoint additional staff officers if public service so requires. All members of the staff are appointed by the commander-in-chief, are commissioned by him, and hold office during his pleasure and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The duties of the adjutant general are to distribute all orders, to attend public reviews when the commander-in-chief shall review the troops, to carry out all orders relative to putting into execution and perfecting the system of military discipline established by the State and United States, to prepare and furnish blank forms for the different returns, rolls and vouchers that may be required, and to explain how such returns, rolls and vouchers should be made, to distribute all books required to be furnished at the public expense, to receive all military reports that are required to be made, and from such reports make proper abstracts and lay them with the reports of the business of the department and a statement of the strength, condition and efficiency of the military forces of the State before the commander-in-chief, to make return in duplicate of the militia of the State according to such directions as he may receive from the secretary of war. Practically he has charge of the military forces, after consultation with the commander-in-chief.

The surgeon-general, under direction of the commander-in-chief, purchases and issues all medical, surgical and hospital supplies, and approves the bills for the same, before transmission to the adjutant general. He has supervision of all matters pertaining to the medical department of the military forces and makes detailed reports of the same.

The inspector general attends all encampments of the national guard, critically observes the amount and kind of duty performed each day and manner of its performance and the condition of each organization, the degree of order maintained, and the general police of camp. He makes an annual inspection of each company, troop, platoon and corps, and of any other organization belonging to the national guard. He also makes an annual inspection of all armories, books and military property belonging to each organization and of its financial condition and makes a detailed report upon the encampment and the condition of all property and organizations inspected by him, with such suggestions as he shall deem important in regard to the work and the efficiency of the system of instruction, drill and discipline prescribed, and of the necessity of further legislation to perfect the same.

The commissary-general, under direction of the commander-in-chief, purchases all subsistence supplies, approves all bills therefor and transmits them to the adjutant general.

The judge-advocate-general, under direction, is charged with the supervision, care and management of all things relating to the administration of justice in the military forces of the State; he shall diligently examine the proceedings of all courts martial, and reports thereon. When directed he acts as judge advocate at any court martial. He is the advisor of the military department upon all legal questions and all contracts, agreements or other instruments to be drawn or executed in the course of the business thereof.

The inspector general of rifle practice, under direction, has supervision of the rifle practice of the military forces of the State. He sees that the laws, orders and regulations relative thereto are complied with, and that rifle ranges are furnished by the cities and towns, and reports any failures.

In addition to which there is much small equipment for use at the State Camp Ground, such as cooking utensils, kitchen ware, table ware, refrigerators, scales and furniture for kitchen and mess houses, also for hospital equipment.

20. Property accountability.

Commanding officers of companies draw all company clothing and equipment, except tentage and mess outfits, they having an allowance for care and responsibility of property. All property lost through their inattention or carelessness is charged against their allowance.

21. Subsistence.

Rations have same component parts as in the regular service, with an addition in case of a five days' mobilization for annual encampment, of 10%, to offset the inexperience of men but a short time in camp and for the increased appetite incident to a short term of service. The components vary somewhat with the season but follow regulations as nearly as possible. They are contracted for by the commissary-general under direction and supervision of the adjutant-general, by authority of the commander-in-chief. They are issued on regular ration returns, copy of blank form herewith. In camp they are cooked in the company kitchens by the company cooks, the cooks being enlisted men and members of the company for which they cook. In active service the Buzzacott oven is used.

22. Pay and allowances.

For tours of duty of more than ten days' duration, they pay and allowances are as in the United States service. For less than ten days' service the following sum each per day for every day actually on duty:

Major General	$8.00
Brigadier General	6.00
Colonel	5.00
Lieutenant Colonel	4.50
Major	4.00
Captain	3.00
First Lieutenant	2.50
Second Lieutenant	2.00
Non-commissioned officers	1.50
Privates	1.25
Members of band	3.00

No pay is allowed for armory drills, for attendance at regimental schools or for officers-elect before boards of examination.

Assistant adjutants-general and adjutants of regiment receive $100 per year. Adjutants of separate battalions $10 annually in addition to the per diem pay herein provided. Commissioned officers required to be mounted are allowed $3.00 per day and forage for each horse actually employed by them. Non-commissioned officers and orderlies, $2.00 per day and forage, and the same for each draft horse employed in batteries of light artillery and with the ambulances, also for cavalry. Commanding officers of companies receive $50.00 per year for care and responsibility of property in addition to the per diem pay fixed. Company clerks receive $20.00 per year. For a tour of duty less than ten days, officers are allowed subsistence which is paid by the State.

23. Stores.

(a). Purchase of: All supplies of every kind except commissary stores are purchased by the quartermaster-general under direction of the commander-in-chief. They are selected by sample and are purchased after obtaining bids, with samples, from many supply houses. Commissary supplies are purchased by the commissary-general under instructions from the adjutant-general by authority of the commander-in-chief. They are selected carefully by sample after obtaining prices from various supply houses.

(b) Medical supplies: Medical supplies are purchased by the surgeon-general under instruction from the adjutant general by authority of the commander-in-chief. The surgeon-general keeps a careful inventory of the supplies on hand and purchases from time to time in the public market such as may be needed, in his judgment, to keep an ample stock on hand. The supplies consist of medical and surgical chests, surgical instruments, absorbant cottons and medical utensils, and a full supply of all necessary medicines.

24. Personnel and discipline.

The personnel of the national guard of this State is excellent. The discipline in some companies is good in some fair. It depends largely upon the officers and is being much improved. The liquor habit has been much reduced of late with a marked improvement in discipline. This is owing to greater vigilance of commanding officers, and greater care being exercised by examining boards.

25. Theoretical instruction.

I have instituted this year a regular course of instruction by the United States officer on duty with the national guard, covering administrative work including all papers necessary to be understood by troops in active service, both company and regimental, also instruction in guard duty, outpost duty, patrols, reconnaissances, and information. They are instructed in care of the person and camp hygiene and simple instruction is given in the use of mess outfits and camping in the field, in bivouac, etc. These subjects as far as possible also form the basis of instruction and discussion at the regimental officers' schools held in each regiment once or twice a year. At these schools medical officers are present and give instruction on first service to the wounded and care of health in camp and field. The regimental inspector of rifle practice is present and gives instruction in the use of the rifle on the range and in the field.

26. Guard duty.

At the close of the encampment guard duty was well performed. At its opening it was somewhat faulty. At the last encampment, under my instruction, one of the regular officers in attendance devoted a large portion of his time to instructing the officers and non-commissioned officers in guard duty and in seeing that the sentinels were well instructed. No outpost duty was performed.

27. Target practice.

There being no organization of cavalry or artillery, rifle practice is confined to the infantry and signal corps. There are no rifle galleries connected with the armories, but each town where a company is stationed furnishes a rifle range. In most cases the ranges have 200, 300, 500 and 600 yards. A few of the companies have not the latter distance.

28. The system of instruction and classification in this State is quite good. A great deal of interest is taken in rifle practice. The system is being constantly improved and by the stimulation of prizes and badges of excellence the average marksmanship is becoming excellent. It is my intention to propose a change in the militia law, authorizing three extra lieutenants to a regiment, who besides being battalion adjutants, shall be inspectors of rifle practice, and thus obtain an even closer supervision of range work, and have all qualifications made in the presence of this officer.

29. Regulations.

Full regulations for the national guard of the State of Maine have been drawn up by me this year, with the assistance of Captain C. G. Morton, 6th U. S. Infantry, on duty with the National Guard. They were submitted to a board of officers convened by me and also to the commander-in-chief, and were promulgated on the 20th of April, 1898. On my appointment as adjutant-general I found that regulations had never been prepared or established for the government of the National Guard of this State and I at once took the matter up.

30. Maps.

The maps in the adjutant-general's office consist of a railroad map giving all the railroads of the State of Maine with a general outline of the waterways and indicating the principal towns, also a map of the State giving all waterways, towns and most of the highways, and an atlas of the counties, giving in detail the highways, together with the villages, towns, and waterways. All these maps give an outline of the coast and adjacent islands. The atlas referred to, while not kept in the adjutant-general's office, is always available for use. A railway map with the stations of the companies and corps of the National Guard of the State of Maine marked upon it in red is herewith enclosed. On the margin of the map will be found a table indicating the organizations and the places where stationed.

31. Armories.

The armories occupied by the organizations of the National Guard, except in Portland, were built for other purposes. They are mostly halls in buildings, the halls and rooms for storage of clothing and equipment, officers' quarters and company rooms being leased for the use of the organizations occupying them. The sum of $100.00 a year for each company, corps and regimental headquarters, is allowed by the State. The balance is made up by the city or town where the company is stationed. In some cases a portion of the rent is paid by the company itself. In Portland the city has built a building purposely for an armory and in it is a large drill shed. In the armory there are separate rooms for the officers and enlisted men of each company. Four companies and the Signal Corps occupy quarters in the building and use the drill shed for drill purposes. In Lewiston a large hall is leased, with officers' and company quarters attached, for three infantry companies and the ambulance corps. In the other towns where companies are stationed, there is but one company in a place and therefore the armory is used exclusively for the company stationed there. The regimental headquarters of the First Infantry are situated at Biddeford, those of the Second Infantry at Lewiston. The armories are at the stations of the several companies.

32. Arsenals.

There is one arsenal, located at Bangor. The ground contains about an acre and a half of land. It is surrounded by a high picket fence. The buildings consist of a large store house built of brick, of two stories, and a powder house on the corner of the ground, also of brick.

33. Independent commands.

There are no independent commands in the State, the law not authorizing such. There are several associations who have been licensed to drill and parade, under a provision of the law permitting such licenses.

34. A regular officer should always be on duty with the National Guard of the State, who should report to the commander-in-chief and whose chief function should be, under direction of the adjutant-general, the instruction of the various organizations of the National Guard of the State, especially in guard duty, outpost duty, camp sanitation, care of troops in the field and administrative work, in so far as it relates to making reports, drawing rations, making requisitions and drawing supplies on the same. The allotment of the government should be materially increased and in return therefor more thorough oversight of the National Guard should be granted to the Secretary of War.

SUBSEQUENT TO APRIL 20, 1898.

35. One regiment of infantry, one battalion of heavy artillery and one signal corps from this State mustered into the service of the United States Volunteers. The infantry regiment was designated "First Maine Volunteer Infantry." First muster in to the service occurred May 5, 1898. The several companies were mustered between the 10th and 13th of May, and the final muster of the field and staff took place on the 14th of May. The Maine Detachment United States Volunteer Signal Corps, designated "8th Company, U. S. Volunteer Signal Corps," was mustered in to the service June 11, 1898. Of the First Battalion Maine Volunteer Artillery, Battery A was mustered in June 1, Battery B, July 16, Battery C, July 18, and Battery D, July 20, 1898. The First Infantry Maine Volunteers and Battery A were organized under the first call of the President. Batteries B, C and D under the second call, the First Infantry and Battery A being recruited to the maximum also under this call. The signal corps was recruited under a law authorizing the organization of the volunteer signal corps.

36. 1003.

37. 62 officers.

38. 14 Non-commissioned officers and privates.

39. 8 officers and enlisted men received commissions from the President.

40. 2 graduates from institutions of learning where an officer of the army was on duty, received commissions in the volunteer regiments.

41. 2 officers, viz: Lieutenant Colonel Charles G. Morton, a graduate of U. S. Academy, Captain of the 6th Infantry, U. S. A., and First Lieutenant George O. Hubbard, who served a term of enlistment in the United States Army prior to his appointment.

42. A communication to the Governor of Maine from the Secretary of War, dated April 25, 1898, requesting the Governor to provide the quota of volunteers from this State, reached this office April 29, 1898. A dispatch giving organizations, dated April 25, reached this office the 29th of April. The organizations of the National Guard reported at camp rendezvous, Augusta, Maine, on the 2d of May. Their muster in to the U. S. service commenced May 5. Concentration could have been made April 30, but a very severe storm rendered it unwise to bring unseasoned men to camp on that day. All companies came to Augusta direct by rail except three companies situated at Calais, Eastport and Machias, in the eastern part of the State, who came by steamer, the Washington County Railroad now running, not having been completed at that time. Commutation of travel rations at 25 cents a meal per man was authorized to those companies who were en route over one or more meals, also for the three eastern companies, two of which, Eastport and Calais, came by the International Steamship from Eastport to Portland. The Machias company proceeded from Machiasport to Mount Desert Ferry by the steamer "Frank Jones." At the ports of arrival these companies boarded trains of the Maine Central Railroad and proceeded to Augusta direct. In time of peace permission has been obtained from the Canadian authorities to bring the Eastport and Calais companies through British territory from St. Stephens to Vanceboro, over the Canadian Pacific Railroad, thence on the Maine Central Railroad. War having been declared this was impossible and therefore they were brought by steamer. All other companies came direct by the Maine Central Railroad from their several stations except the Houlton, Norway and Biddeford companies. The Norway company proceeded from Norway to Yarmouth Junction over the Grand Trunk Railway. At Yarmouth Junction they boarded the special train bringing the Portland companies. The Biddeford company came into Portland via the Boston and Maine Railroad in season to take this same train. The Houlton company took the special train at Bangor which brought the Bangor, Machias, Dover, Skowhegan and Waterville companies.

Points of concentration in case of mobilization of volunteers.

For a concentration of not exceeding two regiments of infantry, the State Camp Ground, with certain added land which I hope will very soon be obtained, in consideration of the buildings there standing and other conveniences, would seem to be the best place for a sudden concentration of the National Guard of the State, as all ordnance, ordnance stores, clothing and equipments, together with tentage, held in reserve, are stored on or near the camp ground and are, together with the mess houses, cook houses, and hospital buildings, immediately available. Should a larger number of troops be required, the vicinity of Portland or Bangor furnish good points of concentration, as they are both railroad centers and are available for water communication as well, and are therefore strategic points.

SUGGESTIONS FOR INCREASING THE MOBILITY, EFFICIENCY, AND IMMEDIATE AVAILABILITY OF THE ACTIVE
MILITIA OF THE SEVERAL STATES.

A bill introduced by the Hon. E. C. Burleigh in the House of Representatives, December 15, 1898, is herewith forwarded.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON.

July 26, 1899.

To the Adjutant-General, State of Maine, Augusta:

Sir:—Referring to circular letter, from this office, under date of July 6th, 1899, asking for information relative to the State Militia, I have the honor to request that you submit therewith your views upon the following questions:

1.—In the light of experience in the recent war, what points do you regard as the most suitable in your State for mobilization and concentration of volunteers?

2.—What are your views relative to mobilization and concentration of State troops in case of war in the future?

Very respectfully,

W. A. SIMPSON,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 28, 1899.

The Honorable, The Secretary of War:

SIR:—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of yours of the 23d of January ultimo, requesting my legal opinion upon the following statement of facts as given in your letter:

“At the commencement of the war with Spain certain of the States turned over to the United States a part of the quartermaster and ordnance stores which were at that time in use by the militia organizations of said States. A part of the stores thus turned over had been more or less used and were consequently of somewhat less value than when new. The commanding officer of each volunteer organization was directed to convene a board of officers of his command to determine the value of said stores at the time they were turned over to the United States.

“Certain of these states having requested the return of these stores in kind, I have the honor to request your opinion, first, whether this Department can legally issue to said States new stores for those turned over by them to the United States, and, second, whether this Department can legally allow said States credits for the stores turned over at the value determined by said board of officers, and issue new stores to said States to the extent of said credits.”

Upon investigation of the matters involved in your request, I find that there are two questions which arise upon the facts presented by you.

The first is as to arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and other equipments which belonged to the several States and which were turned over by the states for use by the troops in the volunteer army of the United States in the war with Spain,—the inquiry being whether such stores, etc., should be returned in kind or paid for by the government.

The second is as to what course shall be pursued by the government in regard to arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and camp equipage, the property of the United States, in use by the militia in the states when the war with Spain commenced, and which were carried into the service and used by the troops of the states when accepted as a part of the volunteer army of the United States.

The first question is readily answered. The ordnance and other stores belonging to the several states, which were taken or accepted by the United States for use in the war, should be treated in like manner as such stores procured from any other source. When the Government accepted them, it incurred the obligation to pay the price agreed upon, or, in the absence of an agreement as to price, to pay whatever they were worth. In either case there appears to be no great difficulty in arriving at the amount for which the Government is liable. As stated, the value of the stores were, in some instances, made by boards of appraisers. If the valuations made by these boards were acceptable to both parties, the Government ought to pay the amounts thus ascertained; but if, on the other hand, the boards and their work were the mere ex parte action of the Government, to which the states did not assent, then the Government assumed the liability of paying whatever the stores furnished were worth, to be arrived at in some feasible manner.

It is impossible to see how stores of the character described, belonging to the states, furnished to the Government, can be returned in kind, for, as stated, these stores had been more or less used, and it would be exceedingly difficult to arrive at any satisfactory basis for returning property of like character and quality.

As to the other question; As I understand it, the question concerns stores which were in the possession of the states and which had been furnished by the United States to the militia of the states under the provisions of the Act of February 12, 1887, (24 Stat. L., 401), which is in these words:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section sixteen hundred and sixty-one of the Revised Statutes be, and the same is hereby, amended and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

"Section 1. That the sum of four hundred thousand dollars is hereby annually appropriated, to be paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of providing arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and camp equipage for issue to the militia.

"Sec. 2. That said appropriation bill shall be apportioned among the several states and territories under the direction of the Secretary of War, according to the number of senators and representatives to which each state respectively is entitled in the Congress of the United States, and to the territories and District of Columbia such proportion and under such regulations as the President may prescribe; Provided, however, That no state shall be entitled to the benefits of the appropriation apportioned to it unless, the number of its regularly enlisted, organized, and uniformed active militia shall be at least one hundred men for each senator and representative to which such state is entitled in the Congress of the United States. And the amount of said appropriation which is thus determined not to be available shall be covered back into the treasury.

"Sec. 3. That the purchase or manufacture of arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and camp equipage for the militia under the provisions of this act shall be made under the direction of the Secretary of War, as such arms, ordnance and quartermaster's stores and camp equipage are now manufactured or otherwise provided for the use of the regular army, and they shall be receipted for and shall remain the property of the United States, and be annually accounted for by the governors of the states and territories for which purpose the Secretary of War shall prescribe and supply the necessary blanks and make such regulations as he may deem necessary to protect the interest of the United States.

"Sec. 4. That all arms, equipments, ordnance stores, or tents which may become unserviceable or unsuitable shall be examined by a board of officers of the militia, and its report shall be forwarded to (by) the governor of the state or territory direct to the Secretary of War, who shall direct what disposition, by sale or otherwise, shall be made of them; and, if sold, the proceeds of such sale shall be covered into the treasury of the United States."

The states did not own these stores, but, by the express terms of the act, they remained and were the property of the United States. It was undoubtedly the purpose of Congress in enacting the above legislation to authorize the general government to provide arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and camp equipage for the militia of the several states, with a view of having an organized force, with equipments, ready in case of emergency. An emergency arose when the war with Spain was declared, and, although the militia as such was not called into active service, the several states furnished quotas of troops which were mustered in as a part of what was called the volunteer army of the United States, and the arms, ordnance stores, etc., which were already in possession of the states under the provisions of the above act, were used in equipping and providing for the said troops. There is most certainly no law under which the United States can pay the states for arms, ordnance stores, etc., furnished by virtue of the foregoing law, because, as before stated, these stores were the property of the United States and did not belong to the states at all; and when the soldiers in the army of the United States were using those stores, they were using property of which Government was the sole owner.

The only question, then, is as to whether the Government is either empowered or required to issue to the several states, stores in kind to replace such of these arms, ordnance stores, etc., as were exhausted, consumed, or impaired by use in the war with Spain, or, in case the Government cannot return such stores in kind, are the states entitled to credit by the Government for the value of such stores?

I do not hesitate to advise that the Government has no authority to supply stores of this character to be issued to the militia of the states from the general appropriations for the war department, the power being derived from the act above quoted. If any part of the appropriation made by the said act remains, or if there are arms, ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores, and equipage on hand, purchased under authority of the same, and the appropriation made thereby, I do not doubt the right of the Government to re-furnish the several states from this source. But in the absence of this appropriation, or of arms, ordnance stores, etc., purchased with it, I do not find any lawful authority by which such stores can be again supplied to the militia of the several states.

Very respectfully,

JAS. E. BOYD,

Assistant Attorney-General.

GENERAL ORDERS.

STATE OF MAINE.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
AUGUSTA, April 29, 1899.

General Orders, No. 1.

I. The organizations and members of the National Guard of Maine, that entered the Volunteer Army under the two calls of the President for troops during the war with Spain, have all been mustered-out of the United States service and have returned to their homes. They have proven themselves worthy sons of Maine and have again written on the pages of history, the loyalty of her people and their readiness to respond to the call of duty.

The Commander-in-Chief appreciates the promptness with which they rallied to the colors and enabled him quickly to turn over to the government the magnificent organizations which so well represented our State, he desires to heartily thank every officer and enlisted man who contributed to this result.

It was through no fault of theirs, that many of the organizations from this State, failed to see service at the front; their patriotism and fidelity during the long months of comparative inactivity incident to the routine of army camp life showed to the country the sterling material of which they were composed. In common with organizations fortunate in seeing active service, they have earned from a grateful Commonwealth, commendation and honor for their loyalty, while the honored dead receive tender recognition as having died in the performance of duty.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,
Adjutant-General.

STATE OF MAINE.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

AUGUSTA, May 10, 1899.

General Orders, No. 2.

I. Attention is called to article six, paragraph 65, Regulations for the National Guard. Immediate compliance with its provisions is required.

II. Company commanders will at once recommend for discharge all enlisted men who failed to pass the physical examination required when they presented themselves for acceptance in the organizations that were mustered-in to the U. S. Volunteer Army for the war with Spain, also all men who for any reason are unable to attend promptly and efficiently to their duties.

III. Companies and corps will be, as soon as practicable, recruited to the minimum strength fixed by the militia law, as amended by sections one, two and three of chapter 128, Public Laws of 1899, care being taken to enlist only men of good moral character, such as will be a credit to the National Guard and who can pass the physical examination required for the regular army.

All orders or parts of orders inconsistent with this paragraph are hereby revoked.

IV. All company and corps commanders will make requisition for field desks and such blank forms and stationery as they may require, and those whose companies or corps entered the U. S. Volunteer Army will in addition make requisition for all books and other property that were turned in to the Quartermaster-General.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,

Adjutant-General.

General Orders, No. 11.

I. To expedite the examination of recruits and their muster-in to the service, General Orders No. 10, paragraph II, is so far modified as to authorize the examination of recruits for companies located in towns where surgeons of the National Guard are stationed, as fast as they are enlisted. This authority will also be extended to cover recruits for companies located in towns so near a surgeon's station that the men can report for examination without requiring the issue of transportation.

II. Surgeons when examining individual enlisted men who report under the provisions of the preceding paragraph, will make an expense account for the duty performed in accordance with Article XXXV, paragraph 435, Regulations for the National Guard.

III. All company and corps commanders to whom rifles and equipments have been issued, will at once make requisition for the reserve ammunition required to be kept in the armories and also for the full allowance of ammunition for small arms practice. Upon receiving the ammunition, they will at once take up small arms practice.

IV. It is desired that all organizations of the National Guard be recruited as rapidly as possible, to enable them to resume small arms practice before the season is too far advanced.

JOHN T. RICHARDS,

Adjutant-General.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

AUGUSTA, July 25, 1899.

General Orders, No. 12.

I. The report of the proceedings of the board of inquiry convened at Auburn, signed by Lieutenant-Colonel Eugene F. Smith, First Infantry, Captain John Bird, Company H, First Infantry, Captain Calvin W. Brown, Company F, Second Infantry, and First Lieutenant Frank B. W. Welch, Company A, First Infantry, as recording officer, has been presented and reviewed.

II. The board was convened under the following orders:
Special Orders No. 12.

1. Lieutenant-Colonel Eugene F. Smith, First Infantry, Captain John Bird, Company H, First Infantry, Captain Calvin W. Brown, Company F, Second Infantry, and Lieutenant Frank B. W. Welch, Company A, First Infantry, who will act as recording officer, are hereby appointed a board of inquiry to examine into the propriety of conduct of Captain Lincoln H. Barney, Company C, First Infantry, and certain enlisted men of his company, under the provisions of Chapter 266, Section 114 of the Public Laws of 1893, as amended by Chapter 128, Section 15, Public Laws of 1899.

2. The board will meet at the armory of Company C, First Infantry, in Auburn, Maine, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of Wednesday, July 12, 1899.

3. Captain Lincoln H. Barney, Company C, First Infantry, Sergeant E. Linn Sprague, Corporals Fairfield A. Collins, Morris Read and Fred Sanderson also of Company C, will report to the board at the hour and place named for the inquiry.

4. The board will report promptly with recommendations.

5. Transportation will be furnished by the Adjutant-General. An expense account of the actual and necessary expenses of the members of the board will be forwarded to this office through military channels.

6. The board will sit without regard to hours.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,

Adjutant-General.

III. The board finds Captain Lincoln H. Barney of C Company, First Regiment Infantry, N. G. S. M., guilty of a laxity in discipline and good order by indirectly countenancing the introduction of intoxicating liquor into the armory of his said company, and it recommends that he be reprimanded in orders, with due consideration of his services in the National Guard and United States Volunteers during the war with Spain. It finds Sergeant E. Linn Sprague, Corporal Fairfield A. Collins, Corporal Morris Read and Corporal Fred Sanderson all of said C Company, First Infantry, guilty of a violation of Section 144 of Article 15 of the Regulations of the National Guard of the State of Maine, by the introduction of intoxicating liquors into the armory of said company. It finds in evidence that the terms of enlistment of Sergeant E. Linn Sprague, Corporal Fairfield A. Collins and Corporal Fred Sanderson had expired prior to the commission of the offense for which they were found guilty. It recommends that if they are still amendable to military law, that they be reduced to the rank of privates and discharged from the service, and they do recommend that Corporal Morris Read be reduced to the rank of a private and discharged from the service.

IV. The proceedings, findings, and the foregoing recommendations of the board are hereby approved.

V. The Commander-in-Chief fully concurs in the opinion of the board as to the great laxity in discipline and good order manifested by Captain Lincoln H. Barney of Company C, First Infantry. The regulations for the National Guard provide explicitly that the commander of troops occupying an armory is responsible for its safety and defenses; for the discipline and efficiency of the troops; that it is his duty to see that laws and regulations are strictly enforced; that the quarters are in proper condition; that they are kept clean and in repair and that nothing but authorized articles are to be kept in the lockers; that armories are to be used only by troops unless special permission is obtained from the Commander-in-Chief, and that gambling or the introduction of intoxicating liquor into the armory is strictly prohibited. By his own evidence Captain Barney admits permitting this gross violation of the regulations, and thus sets an example of disregard of orders and regulations to the men of his company and the officers and men of the National Guard which is most reprehensible. The Commander-in-Chief therefore severely reprimands Captain Barney of Company C, First Infantry, but as recommended by the board, in consideration of his long service in the National Guard and his patriotism in volunteering on the call of the President, and faithful service done as an officer of the First Maine Volunteer Infantry, he takes no further action in his case.

VI. Colonel Lucius H. Kendall, commanding First Infantry, will relieve Captain Barney from arrest and restore him to duty with his company.

VII. The records of this office show that the terms of enlistment of Sergeant E. Linn Sprague, Corporal Fairfield A. Collins, and Corporal Fred Sanderson expired respectively, June 29, 1899; June 20, 1899; March 30, 1899. These men are therefore not amendable to military law.

VIII. Corporal Morris Read, Company C, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., for gross violation of the regulations of the National Guard and disregard of his responsibility as a non-commissioned officer, in assisting in the introduction of intoxicating liquor into the armory of Company C, and countenancing its use there, in accordance with the recommendations of the board, is hereby reduced to the rank of a private and discharged from the military service of the State.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,
Adjutant-General.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
AUGUSTA, August 7, 1899.

General Orders, No. 13.

I. The report of the proceedings of the Board of Inquiry convened at Portland pursuant to General Orders No. 9, series of 1899, these headquarters, as modified by Special Orders No. 28, A. G. O., c. s., to examine into the qualifications, efficiency and propriety of conduct of First Lieutenant Clement M. Giveen, Company K, First Infantry; First Lieutenant Stephen L. Foley, Company L, First Infantry; First Lieutenant William D. Whitney, Company A, Second Infantry; Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, First Infantry; and Second Lieutenant Harry H. Sawyer, Company A, First Infantry; also to inquire into the propriety of conduct of Privates Alton W. Cliff, Edward C. Bickley and Albert H. Hamilton, all of Company A, First Infantry, and Private Fred H. Coughlin, Company B, Second Infantry, has been presented and reviewed.

II. In the case of Private Fred H. Coughlin, Company B, Second Infantry, who was called and failed to appear, the evidence produced shows that Private Coughlin entered the service April 19, 1898. On May 17, 1898, he was mustered into the United States Volunteers as a private in Battery A, First Battalion Maine Volunteer Artillery, thereby being on a furlough under General Orders No. 10, A. G. O., c. s. That while the battery was in camp at Augusta, Maine, during September and October, 1898, Private Coughlin after ten days' absence without leave was dropped from the company rolls as a deserter, in accordance with Paragraph 133, U. S. Army Regulations, and failing to join his battery again was entered on the muster out roll as a deserter. Since the muster out of his battery he has not reported for duty with his company. The board recommends that Private Fred H. Coughlin, Company B, Second Infantry, N. G. S. M., be dishonorably discharged.

III. In the case of First Lieutenant William D. Whitney, Company A, Second Infantry, who was called and failed to appear, the evidence shows that Lieutenant Whitney failed to report for duty at the expiration of his leave of absence, May 30, 1899, and up to the present date has failed so to report. The board recommends that First Lieutenant William D. Whitney, Company A, Second Infantry, be discharged without honor.

IV. In the case of First Lieutenant Clement M. Giveen, Company K, First Infantry, the evidence shows that Lieutenant Giveen failed to report for duty at the expiration of the term of leaves of absence and furloughs granted to members of his company by General Orders No. 10, A. G. O., series of 1898, also that he has moved from Brunswick to Lewiston and thus removed himself from the locality in which his company is stationed; the evidence also shows that Lieutenant Giveen, though having been ten years in the service, exhibited great want of knowledge of military law, the rules of service, and the duties of an officer. The board recommends that the commission of First Lieutenant Clement M. Giveen, Company K, First Infantry, be vacated and that in consideration of his past services he be given an honorable discharge.

V. In the case of Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, First Infantry, who was called and failed to appear, the evidence shows that the records of the physical examination of officers for the First Maine Volunteer Infantry contains among the records of rejections the following: "Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, varicocele, left, disqualifying; under weight; rejected." It also shows that Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee has failed to report for duty with his company since its return from its service in the U. S. Volunteers. The board recommends that Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, First Infantry, be discharged from the military service of the State without honor.

VI. In the case of Second Lieutenant Harry H. Sawyer, Company A, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., who was called and failed to appear, the evidence shows that Lieutenant Sawyer's conduct when serving in the First Maine Volunteer Infantry was such that he was asked to resign. It also shows that he has failed to report for duty with his company at the expiration of his leave of absence, May 30, 1899, and that he is still absent without leave. The board recommends that Second Lieutenant Harry H. Sawyer, Company A, First Infantry, be dishonorably discharged.

VII. The cases of Privates Alton W. Cliff, Edward C. Bickley and Albert L. Hamilton, all of Company A, First Infantry, were taken up and considered together. All three of said privates were absent. The evidence shows that these men deserted from the company while in the United States Volunteer Army and have not since reported for duty. The board recommends that Privates Alton W. Cliff, Edward C. Bickley and Albert L. Hamilton, all of Company A, First Infantry, be dishonorably discharged from the National Guard of the State of Maine.

VIII. In the case of First Lieutenant Stephen L. Foley, Company L, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., who was called and appeared before the board, the evidence shows that Lieutenant Foley was rejected by the board of examining surgeons when appointed to the position of first lieutenant in the volunteer army upon the call of the President for troops during the war with Spain; that his disqualifications were of such a nature that he could not readily recover from them. The proceedings further indicate that as an officer of the National Guard his service had not been prompt. In the face of this evidence and of the fact that the Regulations for the National Guard provide that an officer must be physically qualified for military service, acceptance or non-acceptance into the United States service being supposed good evidence, the board recommends that First Lieutenant Stephen L. Foley, Company L, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., be retained in the service, from which opinion Major Collins dissents. He recommends that the commission of First Lieutenant Stephen L. Foley, Company L, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., be vacated and that in consideration of his past services he be granted an honorable discharge.

IX. The proceedings, findings and recommendations of the board in the cases of Private Fred B. Coughlin, Company B, Second Infantry, N. G. S. M.; First Lieutenant William D. Whitney, Company A, Second Infantry; First Lieutenant Clement M. Giveen, Company K, First Infantry; Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, First Infantry; Second Lieutenant Harry H. Sawyer, Company A, First Infantry; Privates Alton W. Cliff, Edward C. Bickley and Albert L. Hamilton, all of Company A, First Infantry, are hereby approved.

X. The proceedings and findings in the case of First Lieutenant Stephen L. Foley, Company L, First Infantry, being contrary to the evidence produced, are, together with the recommendations of the board in this case, disapproved, and Lieutenant Foley is held to appear before a board later.

XI. In accordance with the recommendations of the board, First Lieutenant Clement M. Giveen, Company K, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., is hereby honorably discharged from the service of the National Guard of the State of Maine. First Lieutenant William D. Whitney, Company A, Second Infantry, is hereby discharged from the National Guard of the State of Maine, without honor. Second Lieutenant Martin J. Lee, Company L, First Infantry, is hereby discharged from the service of the National Guard of the State of Maine, without honor. Second Lieutenant Harry H. Sawyer is hereby dishonorably discharged from the National Guard of the State of Maine. Privates Fred H. Coughlin, Company B, Second Infantry; Alton W. Cliff, Edward C. Bickley and Albert L. Hamilton, all of Company A, First Infantry, are hereby dishonorably discharged from the National Guard of the State of Maine.

XII. The Board of Inquiry convened under G. O. No. 9, A. G. O., c. s., is hereby dissolved.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,
Adjutant-General.

Circular, No. 1.

Regimental commanders will impress upon company commanders the necessity of calling the attention of the members of their companies to the provisions of all orders issued.

From information received through the Inspector-General of Rifle Practice it is feared that during the confusion of filling the companies to their complement this may not in all cases have been done. Special attention should be given at this time to the regulations and requirements of orders in relation to rifle practice. The season is now far advanced and no time should be lost in getting all practice possible, having in view the qualifying of men as soon as they are considered sufficiently instructed to attempt making qualifying scores.

This department is anxious to have as good a record made this season as circumstances will permit and will afford all the aid it can to secure a creditable result.

The shells from fixed ammunition must be saved and used for reloading. Not more than sixty grains of powder ought to be used in reloading. If the commanders would so arrange for the preservation of shells that a shell might always be used in the same rifle, there would be less difficulty in having reloaded ammunition fit the chambers of the rifles. The chambers of the rifles are not all alike, and for this reason shells are sometimes so enlarged when fired from one rifle that they will not fit another.

JOHN T. RICHARDS,
Adjutant-General.

General Orders, No. 14.

I. The report of the proceedings of the board of inquiry convened at Bangor to examine into the efficiency of Captain Harold S. Boardman, Company G, Second Infantry, in regard to the loss of certain property for which he is responsible, has been presented and reviewed.

II. The board was convened under the following orders:

Special Orders, No. 23.

1. Colonel Everard E. Newcomb, Second Infantry, and Second Lieutenant Howard Brett, Company G, Second Infantry, as recording officer, are hereby constituted a board of inquiry, under provisions of Chapter 266, Section 114, Public Laws of 1893, as amended by Chapter 128, Section 15, Public Laws of 1899, to examine into the efficiency of Harold S. Boardman, Company G, Second Infantry, in regard to the loss of certain military property transferred to him, it appearing from his reports that certain of the military property for which he was accountable has been lost from the armory of Company G.

2. That Board will meet at the armory in Bangor at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of July 26, 1899.

3. The board will sit without regard to hours and report with recommendations.

4. Transportation will be furnished by the Adjutant-General. Expense accounts of the actual and necessary expenses of the members of the board and Captain Boardman will be forwarded to this office through military channels.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,

Adjutant-General.

III. The board finds that while Captain Boardman employed the usual precaution taken by company commanders for the care of their property up to the time when he had reason to believe uniforms were being removed from the armory without his consent, his failure to take a full account of all property for which he was responsible upon his return from camp, and later when members of his command were enlisting in the regular army and volunteers, his neglect to verify the property account, together with his continued absence from the drill meetings of Company G from August 28, 1898, to May 1, 1899, except on the evening of September 22, indicate an indifference to the affairs and success of his company, gross carelessness and disregard for the safety of much valuable property of the State that had been entrusted to his care, incompatible with a deep sense of the responsibility devolving upon him as a company commander and that he failed to perform the full measure of duty that was due from him as such. The board would recommend that Captain Boardman's resignation be accepted and that he be discharged.

IV. The proceedings, findings and recommendations of the board are hereby approved.

V. The Commander-in-Chief fully concurs in the opinion of the board as to the indifference and carelessness of Captain Boardman and his disregard for the safety of much valuable property that had been entrusted to his care.

VI. The Paymaster-General in making settlement with Captain Boardman for the sum due him for care and responsibility of property, as authorized by Chapter 266, Public Laws of 1893, as amended by Chapter 128, Public Laws of 1899, will deduct from any sum which may be due him, the value of the property lost through carelessness or inattention.

VII. The resignation of Captain Harold S. Boardman, Company G, Second Infantry, N. G. S. M., is hereby accepted and he is discharged from the military service of the State of Maine.

VIII. The board of inquiry convened under S. O. No. 23, A. G. O., c. s., is hereby dissolved.

Adjutant-General.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

AUGUSTA, September 6, 1899.

General Orders, No. 15.

I. During the season of 1899, commanding officers of companies will, under orders of their Colonels, conduct practice for qualification in their own commands.

II. On recommendation of Col. E. C. Farrington, Inspector General of Rifle Practice; Col. Lucius H. Kendall, Com'd'g 1st Infantry; Col. Everard E. Newcomb, Com'd'g 2nd Infantry and Capt. G. W. Butler, Com'd'g Signal Corps, as provided by the Regulations for the National Guard, the following rules to govern practice for qualification for the different classes of marksmanship in the National Guard of Maine, for the year 1899, having been approved by the Commander-in-Chief, are published for the information and guidance of the National Guard.

The period for qualification practice is the months of September and October.

The commander of each company shall have charge of all company qualifications laid down in the "Regulations for Small Arms Practice."

He shall make return to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice and to the regimental inspector of rifle practice upon blanks provided for that purpose, and shall certify that the qualifications were made as provided in the Regulations and rules herein laid down.

The qualification practice of any officer of the Guard not enrolled in company organizations, having received permission to practice, as provided in paragraph 262 of the Regulations, shall be as may be prescribed by the Inspector General of Rifle Practice and approved by the Commander-in-Chief.

When any company commander selects a day or days within the period determined upon by the officers mentioned in paragraph 258 of the Regulations for the National Guard for practice, the colonel commanding the regiment in which the company is, shall detail a non-commissioned officer from some other company conveniently near, to supervise the marking during the qualification practice.

The officer, before commencing such company practice, shall see that the targets, danger flags, marking disks, etc., are in order and that a danger flag is displayed at the target pit and at the firing point.

He shall see that the non-commissioned officer detailed by the Colonel to supervise the marking takes his place in the pit with the markers, and that he is provided with score cards with the names of those who are to practice for qualification, and in the order of their firing, and that he is instructed to observe the hits of all shots and see that the markers give the proper signal showing the value of the shot, being particular that the center of the marking disk is put as near as it can conveniently be over the bullet hole in the target.

The supervisor shall enter the value of each and every hit against the name of the one firing, as appears on his score card.

The officer in charge shall detail two of his company to act as markers during the practice, and make such changes from time to time as he thinks proper.

He shall also detail a member of his company to act as scorer, and make such changes in scores as he deems advisable, provided no change is made which can be avoided until those whose names are upon the score card have finished their firings.

No sighting shots will be allowed at any of the ranges.

When the commanding officer is ready to commence practice, he shall have the danger flag at the target removed, place at the firing point two competitors who shall fire alternately, the odd number of the pair being on the right and firing first. This order of firing must be adhered to, unless prevented by some accident, and in case any change is made the supervisor of marking must be so informed and his score card changed accordingly.

The supervisor and markers must not expose themselves at the pit, until they turn the target down and expose the danger flag.

The supervisor in deciding doubtful hits will give careful attention as to whether the edge of the bull's eye or lines are touched by the bullet, and if so the shot shall be counted as having hit the bull's eye or lines and give it the larger score accordingly.

After a shot has been scored there can be no change made in the score, unless the officer in charge has good reason to know that an error has been made in marking, and if such change is made the supervisor must be notified and his score changed accordingly.

If it is evident to the officer in charge or the supervisor that a hit was made from a bullet which had struck the ground before hitting the target, it must be scored a "miss."

The scorer shall sit close to and at one side of the firing point and shall closely observe the marker's signals; call the score and the name of the competitor making it, and then enter it upon his score card.

No two competitors shall shoot with the same rifle, nor shall a rifle be changed after a score has been commenced, unless the rifle has been disabled by accident.

The cleaning of rifles not allowed, except between ranges, which may then be done if desired.

Officers and men shall wear their prescribed fatigue uniform and belt, and a campaign hat as permitted by General Orders, No. 10, paragraph III, c. s.

If the practice is over more than one range, the shortest will be used first and the longest last.

No coaching is to be allowed nor shall the officer in charge allow any person other than himself, the scorer and the two competitors nearer than ten yards of the firing point, nor shall any one be permitted to interfere in any way with the competitors or give advice as to anything pertaining to the shooting, nor disturb the competitors by loud talk while the men are at the firing point.

Whenever the day is selected the competition must then take place, unless prevented by rain sufficient to make marking impracticable, but the officer may delay firing until after the rain ceases, but for no other reason shall the practice be delayed.

If from any cause the target is removed just as the competitor makes a shot, he shall be given another shot, but no claim as to poor cartridges or any other reason be considered for giving another shot when one has been made.

Only one practice for qualification for each member of a company will be allowed during the season, but if all the members of a company who are entitled to such practice in the two days mentioned in the Regulations have not had an opportunity to do so, the commanding officer of any company may notify the Inspector General of Rifle Practice of the fact and he shall submit the matter of further practice to the Commander-in-Chief and be governed by his decision.

The score cards of the scorer and supervisor shall be preserved, those of the supervisor to be sent to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice immediately after the completion of the practice, and those of the scorer placed on file by the officer in charge.

The officer in charge may test the pull of any rifle and it shall be his duty to do so if asked or if he has reason to think that it is below six pounds, and he shall not allow any soldier to use any rifle the pull of which is less than six pounds.

Any rule laid down in Blunt's Small Arms Firing Regulations, governing rifle practice not herein specified will govern in any case which is not covered by these rules.

The Signal Corps will be governed by the same rules as are herein laid down for company organizations.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN T. RICHARDS,
Adjutant-General.
